OPEN LETTER TO HER EXCELLENCY PRESIDENT GLORIA MACAPAGAL-ARROYO

Dear Madam President,

We, the members of Different Book Associations in the country are appealing for your help in withdrawing the Department of Finance Department Order 17-09 which imposes duty on the importation of books.

We believe that said Order is not in the best interest of the country. It violates the Finance Agreement, an international treaty. It also violates R.A. 6457 or the Book Publishing Industry Development Act.

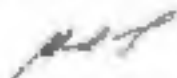

The imposition of duty on book importations, no matter how minimal, will increase the cost to our readers, which in turn will fundamentally affect the quality of education, literacy and overall access to information and knowledge. Our young need to be educated and become human to a high degree to be competitive in the emerging world market. This requires worldwide and world-wide access to information and knowledge through books.

The Finance Agreement, of which the Philippines is a signatory since 1992, has for its main objective the free flow of information among contracting states. The Finance Agreement Guide also expressly states that "Under the Agreement, books, newspapers, periodicals, and many other categories of printed matter are granted duty-free entry".

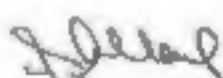

The Book Publishing Industry Development Act has also expressly provided in Section 12 for the tax-and-duty-free importation of books and raw materials for book publishing. However, the EXOI has chosen to interpret this provision to mean that only books used for book publishing are duty free. We certainly disagree. This Section 12 really refers to book importation of books and components of raw materials such as paper and machinery needed and used for book publishing.

Madame President, we are joining our writers, authors and readers in the clamor for the continued duty-free importation of books. Please help us and our countrymen.

Lessons in automating elections

By [illegible]

As the nation's first state to implement a statewide electronic voting system, California is providing a unique opportunity for the rest of the country to learn from its experience. The state's new system, which was implemented in 1996, is a hybrid of paper and electronic voting. It allows voters to cast their ballots electronically, but also provides a paper backup in case of a problem. This system is a good example of how to implement a new technology in a way that is safe and secure.

Disproportionate outrage

By [illegible]

Disproportionate outrage is a common phenomenon in our society. It is often the result of a lack of understanding or a lack of empathy. When we see something that we don't understand, we often react with outrage. But this reaction is often disproportionate to the actual situation. We need to learn to be more understanding and more empathetic. We need to learn to see things from the perspective of others. Only then can we avoid disproportionate outrage.

Scramble for power in Meralco

By John S. Hernandez Jr.

Could it be that the power of the Philippine Electric Corporation (Meralco) is being eroded by the very people who are supposed to be its owners? The answer, according to a report by the Philippine Daily Inquirer, is yes.

The report, which was published in the July 24 issue of the newspaper, says that the Meralco board of directors is in a state of flux, with several members of the board reportedly planning to resign or being asked to step down.

The report also says that the Meralco board is currently divided into two camps, one of which is led by the company's president, while the other is led by a group of independent directors.

The report further says that the Meralco board is currently in a state of confusion, with several members of the board reportedly planning to resign or being asked to step down.

Fig. 1. The effect of the concentration of the solution of the initiator on the rate of polymerization of the monomer. The reaction was carried out at 60°C in the presence of 0.01 mole/l. of the monomer and 0.001 mole/l. of the initiator. The concentration of the initiator was varied from 0.0001 to 0.001 mole/l. The rate of polymerization was determined by the method of the change in viscosity of the solution.

Overcoming false feelings of economic, job security

By Lisa Rodriguez

Times like these elicit a great deal of anxiety, grip sleep and the slightest sign of trouble is met with a sense of dread.

The anxiety that has gripped the nation since the onset of the recession has become a self-fulfilling prophecy. As the economy continues to struggle, many Americans are feeling a sense of helplessness and despair. This is a dangerous mindset, as it can lead to a loss of productivity and innovation, which are essential for economic recovery.

False sense
The sense of security that many Americans feel is a false one. It is based on the hope that the economy will somehow miraculously recover without any effort on our part. In reality, the economy is in a state of decline, and the only way to overcome this is through hard work and innovation.

Blessed are they who weave

Blessed are they who weave
The saying "Blessed are they who weave" is a reference to the parable of the talents in the Bible. It is a story about a man who went on a journey and left his money with three servants. The first servant doubled the money, the second servant tripled it, and the third servant buried it. The man returned and rewarded the first two servants but punished the third.

Figure 1 is a line graph showing the effect of the concentration of the inhibitor on the rate of polymerization. The y-axis is labeled "Rate of polymerization" and ranges from 0 to 1.0. The x-axis is labeled "Concentration of inhibitor" and ranges from 0 to 1.0. The curve starts at (0, 1.0) and decreases as the concentration of inhibitor increases, approaching 0 as the concentration approaches 1.0.

Figure 1 is a line graph showing the effect of the concentration of the initiator (I_2) on the polymerization of 1,3-butadiene. The x-axis is labeled I_2 and has values 10^3 , 10^4 , and 10^5 . The y-axis is labeled DP_n and has values 10^3 , 10^4 , and 10^5 . The curve shows a sharp increase in DP_n as I_2 concentration increases from 10^3 to 10^4 , and then levels off at 10^5 .

Parents' parenting styles: confidence in children
 The study found that parents who use a more authoritative style of parenting tend to have children with higher self-esteem and confidence. This is because these parents are more likely to listen to their children's needs and feelings, and to provide them with the support and encouragement they need to succeed.
